

*The Legend
Wawasee High School
Syracuse, Indiana
Volume I*

It was all so confusing, so strange.
The building was a complete mystery and there were too many strange faces.
So we stayed in our familiar groups.
We thought, felt, and acted as individual groups.
But then . . .
We began to feel the stirrings of a spirit,
a unifying spirit.
It gained momentum as it grew within us until now, proudly, UNITED WE STAND.

Arlene Olson and escort Phil Baumgardt step forward happily to her coronation.

Homecoming queen candidates were Marta Juday, Tina Sellers, Bertha Campos, Arlene Olson, and Ida Juarez.

Homecoming '68 Begins Another WHS Tradition

Eager anticipation and a hard-working senior class announced the arrival of Homecoming '68.

On the big night students dragged, drove and pushed floats which they had designed and built, around the football field.

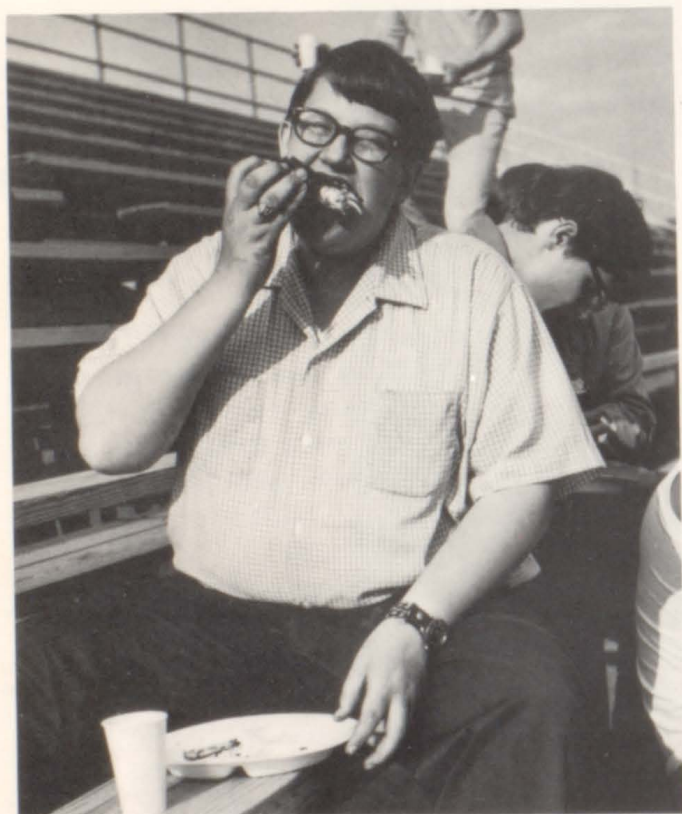

At halftime, the suspense was broken and Arlene Olson was crowned as Wawasee's first Homecoming Queen.

After a disheartening 0--7 loss to Plymouth, students made their way to the school commons and danced to the beat of The Boston Creme Pie.

The freshmen tug away diligently in a gallant attempt to defeat the mighty sophomores.

Terry's stomach was thoroughly satisfied with the Spring Fling.

Marshmallows aren't bad tasting, unless you attempt to eat 163 dozen.

The Spring Fling was invaded by three familiar looking hippies, Mrs. Carpenter, Miss Wogoman, and Miss Fiddler.

'69 Spring Fling

Keith and Bill pulled through with the one and only win for the senior class in the tandem race.

Dave VanLue was the well-deserving winner of the pie-eating contest.

Steve, the competent lawyer, is not affected by the flirtations of Ruby O'Toole.

The action of "The Night of January 16th" comes to a peak with Karen Andre's outburst.

Pam Trantham as the Swedish maid gives her observations of the crime.

Kevin Robie makes a very distinguished attorney, but Dave Fisher as a "policeman?"

"Eleanor, you just can't trust this younger generation!"

Chantal tries desperately to explain her father's adept right punch.

"If a Man Answers", Tina certainly won't hang up; Germaine seriously considers returning to the Folie Bergerie.

Student Actors Present Two Fine Productions

The Drama Club presented two plays during the 1968-69 school year under the direction of Mr. David Dombek. "The Night of January 16th" was given in the fall in the Syracuse gymnasium before the completion of Wawasee's auditorium where "If a Man Answers" was produced in the spring. At the close of the year awards were given to the outstanding performers: Fred Hoerr, best lead actor; Marta Juday, best lead actress; Phil Baumgardt, best supporting actor; and Debby Bockman, best supporting actress.

Bill Pipp breaks through and leads the Warriors to a "Heap Big Victory."

Warrior Fans Display Amazing School Spirit

It all began with rather dubious crowds at football games.
At first uncertain when to yell, we soon caught on and cheered lustily.
Basketball season came.
Spirits buoyed by frequent pep talks stayed high through victory and defeat.
At sectional tourney time an ultra-enthusiastic crowd completely drowned out the announcer's voice.
Whatever the sport, Warrior fans showed their undying enthusiasm throughout the year.

"Come on, you guys, let's really hear it!"

Senior girls work hard making signs at sectional time.

Faculty members show spirit with paper ties and pep talks.

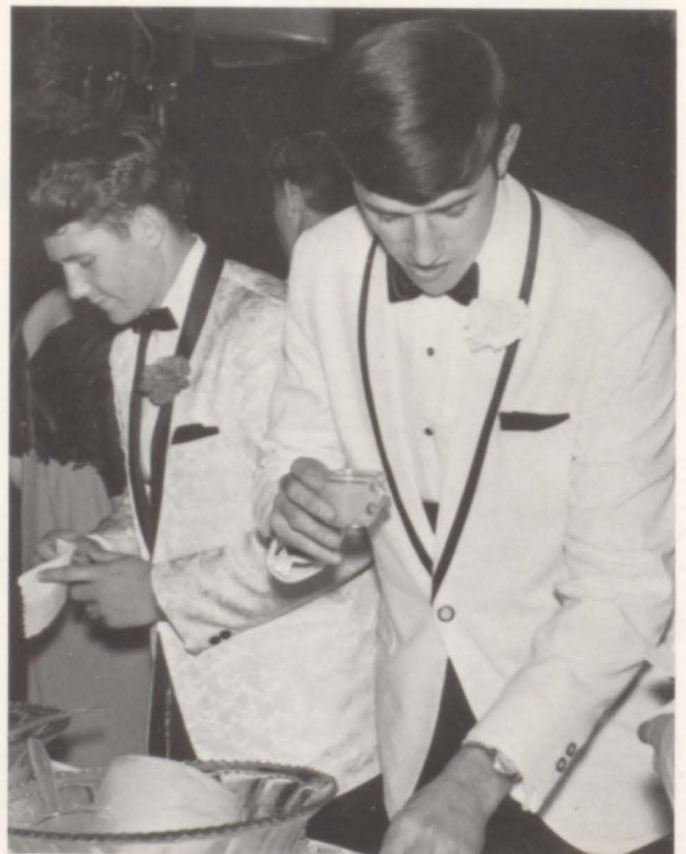

Couples wait in line to buy their pictures of the memorable night.

Peggy Ridings and date Mark Donaho take a breather in the lobby.

Steve Haney and Jim Beer gingerly select refreshments for their dates.

Lynn Stalter whispers "sweet little nothings" into Bob Blue's attentive ear.

A Night to Remember

"A Night To Remember" was truly an appropriate theme for the Senior Prom. On April 26 some one-hundred couples arrived at Cutter's Chalet in Fort Wayne to dine and dance to the music of The Boys Next Door. Blessed with a warm spring night the Seniors and guests not only enjoyed the Prom but also the movies and parties held afterwards. This formal event was undoubtedly a highlight for the year 1968-1969, a year for all to remember.

What's the big secret, John???

The Past Forever Gone, The Future Still Our Own.

The graduates of 1969 looked a little sad, but yet very relieved at the completion of their high school career.

The past year had been a time of compromise and sharing, and it ended in complete harmony for the seniors. They all looked forward now, as indicated by their motto: "The past forever gone, the future still our own."

Charlene Patton and Betty Murphy lead the 177 seniors down the aisle to receive their sheepskins.

Mr. Smith instructs the seniors on all-important commencement etiquette.

"Goofing off" helps relieve the tension of graduation night.

Dr. Jack Gren, commencement speaker.

Superintendent Arnold hands Larry Kammerer his long-awaited diploma.

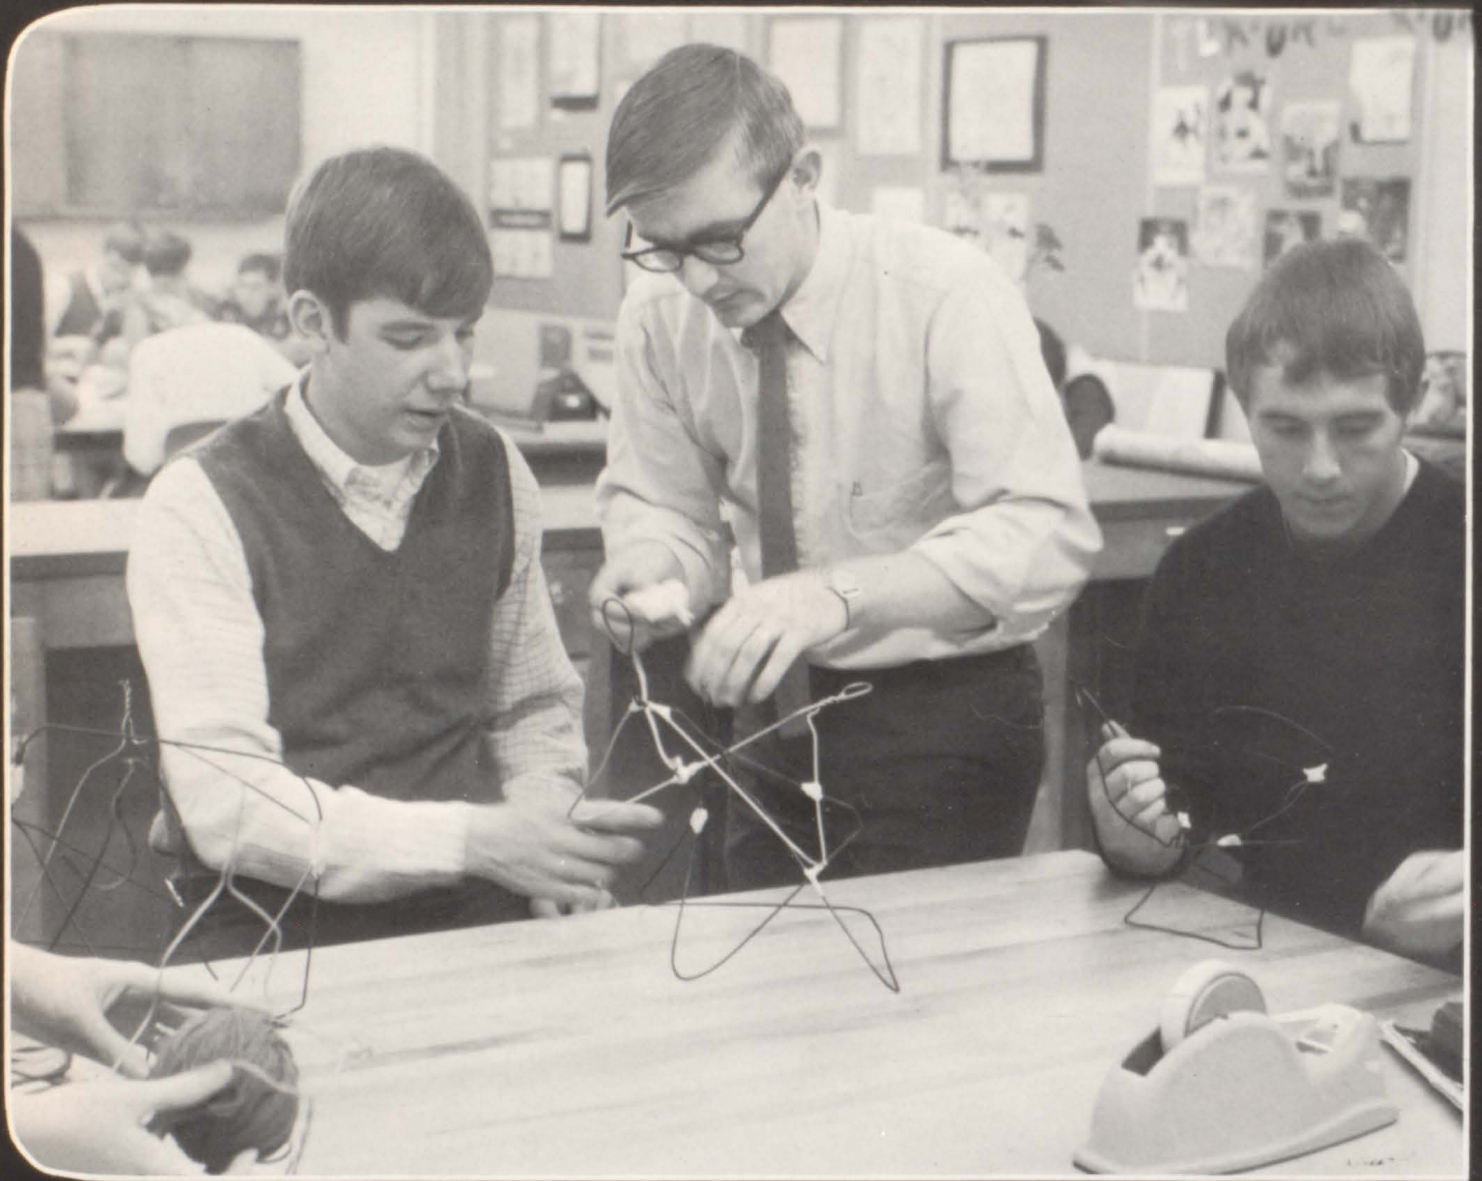

Jubilant seniors finally realize that they are now alumni of Wawasee High School.

"I now pronounce you graduates of Wawasee High School."

Superintendent and School Board Work Hard

Don Arnold, Superintendent

Mr. Arnold is the Lakeland Community School Corporation Superintendent. He works out policies which will benefit the school.

Mr. Smith is Wawasee High School's principal. His main duties are discipline and keeping the students informed of things going on at school.

Mr. Kesler is the vice-principal for Wawasee. He has charge of attendance records and takes over in the absence of Mr. Smith.

Principal Works Well with Vice-Principal

Mr. Smith, Principal

Together, Mr. Smith and Mr. Kesler work out one of the many problems of a new school.

Three Efficient Secretaries Keep Things Going

Arlene Dellinger

Betty Haines

Doris Wolferman

Mrs. Dellinger is the school receptionist. She is responsible for transferring all incoming calls to the proper lines and putting all those on an outside line that need one. This job is very complicated, and she certainly does it well.

Mrs. Haines is Mr. Smith's personal secretary. She types all announcements, keeps the records straight, and sometimes conspires against her employer if she feels the need is there. She also takes care of the copy machines in the office mail-room.

Mrs. Wolferman is Mr. Kesler's secretary, and also the school treasurer. She handles all the money for the classes and clubs and keeps a record of money received and spent and gives a copy to the sponsors every month. As a secretary, she is responsible for keeping the attendance list up to date.

Jack Marlette

Maxine Robinson

Guidance Counselors Direct, Advise, Listen

Jay Newell

Mr. Marlette is the Guidance Director for the Seniors and Freshmen. He takes care of college admission requirements and graduation information.

Mr. Newell is the Junior and Freshman Director. He takes care of schedule changes and helps out if anyone else needs assistance.

Mrs. Robinson is the Director for the Sophomores and Freshmen. She has charge of all scholarship forms for Seniors besides her regular duties.

Four Different Areas Make Study More Inviting

Mrs. Whiteman, Librarian

Mrs. Koble, Assistant Librarian

Mrs. Elam, Quiet Study Hall

Mrs. Rider, Commons

Mrs. Whiteman and Mrs. Koble do a fine job of keeping track of the equipment for the Audio-Visual room, and keeping a record of what books are out. They make sure it stays quiet so some studying can be done, and assist students in locating material.

Mrs. Elam watches the Quiet Study Hall, making sure the restricted students are there and that those who are trying to study aren't disturbed.

Mrs. Rider has the job of watching the Commons and making sure that all wrappers from snacks are disposed of. She also makes sure the students don't get too loud or rowdy.

The Auditorium is used for Study Hall during the 5th and 8th periods. The seats are fabulous!

Gary Agler is looking over some of the records available in the Audio-Visual Department.

The Quiet Study Hall is used for many things besides study. Right, Roger?

Dave Elliott seems rather bored with his reading material. Why not try one of the many books available in the LRC?

Math Department Works for Understanding

Micheal Neff

Terry Frank

Doug Quine

The goal of the Mathematics Department is to provide an opportunity for every student to learn the mathematical skills that he will need to use in his daily life or in his future education beyond high school.

The Mathematics courses taught are: Algebra, Mr. Quine, Mr. Frank, Bob Kitson, and Mr. Neff; General Mathematics, Mr. Quine and Mr. Frank; Geometry, Mr. Royer; and Senior Mathematics, Mr. Neff.

About 59 per cent of the students are enrolled in a mathematics course. It is possible that other courses may be added to the mathematics curriculum. Possible courses are: Calculator Mathematics, Computer Mathematics, and Calculus.

Bruce Commings is very absorbed in illustrating a geometry problem.

Easy problem, Kathy? Doug doesn't seem to think his is quite so simple.

Science Department Keeps on Experimenting

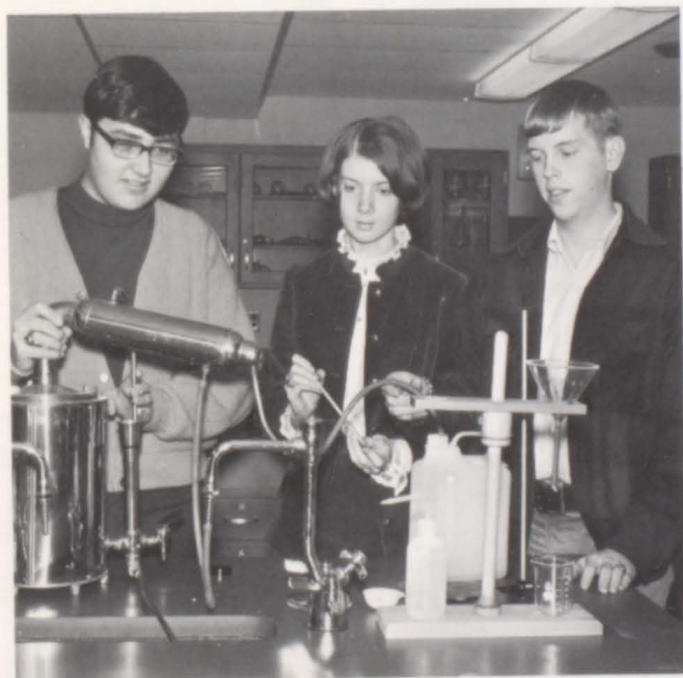

The Science Department occupies four classrooms in the academic wing of the school. The classrooms double as laboratories for most of the classes. There are two preparatory rooms for project work, and a combination workroom, library and conference room.

The Sciences taught are: Physics, Mr. Neff; Chemistry, Bob and Bill Kitson; Earth Science, Mr. Hall; Physiology, Mr. Hall and Mr. Royer; Physical Science, Bob Kitson; General Science, Mr. Hall and Bill Kitson.

Dr. Tina Sellers looks as though she has some bad news for Cindy.

Dave Fisher, Nancy Fawley, and Dan VanLue are trying an experiment in distilling water.

Paul Royer

Harold Hall

Robert Kitson

William Kitson

Steve Bahn and Norm Geible are using some of the new equipment in the Science Department for an experiment. They know what they're doing (?).

Fine Arts Help Create Talented Students

Varner Chance

Joseph Judkins

Pauline Cork

Eleanor Warner

Warren Angle

Chuck Hill and Mike Rowland are using potter's wheels to make clay pottery. This is just one of the many projects in Art IV.

John Corbin is heartily blowing away on his bass horn, trying to outplay everyone else in Band class.

Today art and music are pointing in the same cultural direction. At Wawasee music and art students have the opportunity to major, minor, or participate in both or either music and art.

The Fine Arts courses are: Arts & Crafts, Mr. Angle; Art, Mr. Angle and Mrs. Warner; Chorus, Mr. Chance; Band, Mr. Judkins; Orchestra, Miss Cork; and Music Understanding, Mr. Judkins.

These Orchestra students seem to be enjoying their music as they practice; but the expressions on their faces say a wrong note has been hit.

The cornet players don't look too anxious to begin practice. Of course, not many people enjoy practicing anything every day.

This mixed octet was caught by the camera while singing at the Chorus Concert. The members are: Kent Biller, Dan Conkling, Arlene Olson, Kris Phend, Diane Morehouse, Brenda Hurd, Dan Gansert, and Dave Fisher.

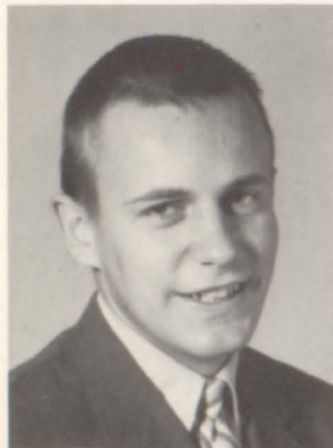

These drawings and statues are on display in the case outside the Art room. They were made by the talented people taking Art this year.

This is the Junior-Senior Choir, always ready to perform. The Concert Grand Piano is new this year, and is a great asset to the choir members.

Business Department Trains Students for Work

Linda Hoy

Patricia Huber

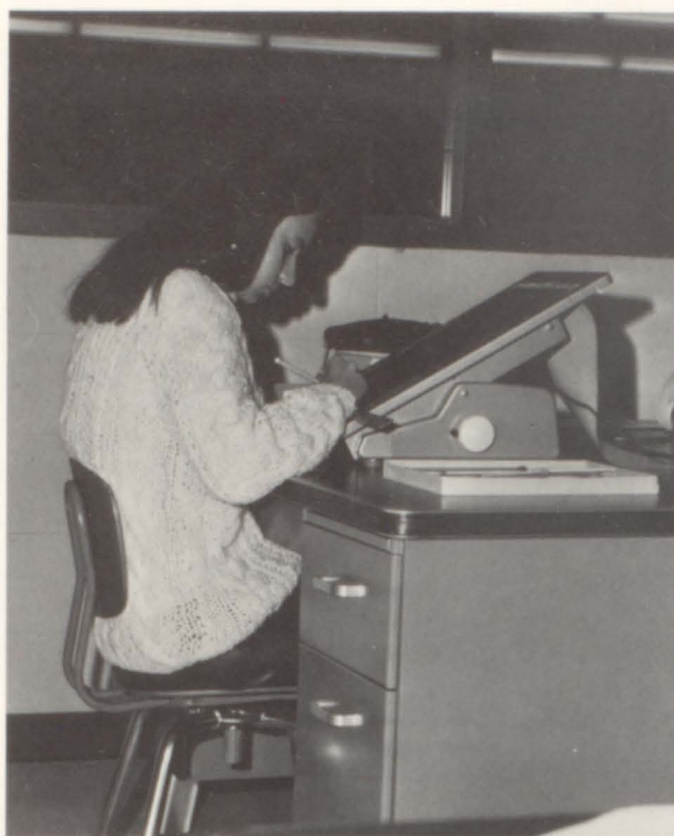

Don B. Bradley III

Jerry Minton

Eldon Ummel

Debbie Cawby is getting set to run off some papers on the mimeograph machine, which is only one of the many new machines in the Business Department.

Linda Mignery is using the mimeoscope to make a stencil.

Steve Edwards is adjusting his dictating machine in his advanced typing class.

Three rooms make up the Business Department, and thirty classes a day are taught, so it is necessary to teach some of the classes in the rooms of other departments.

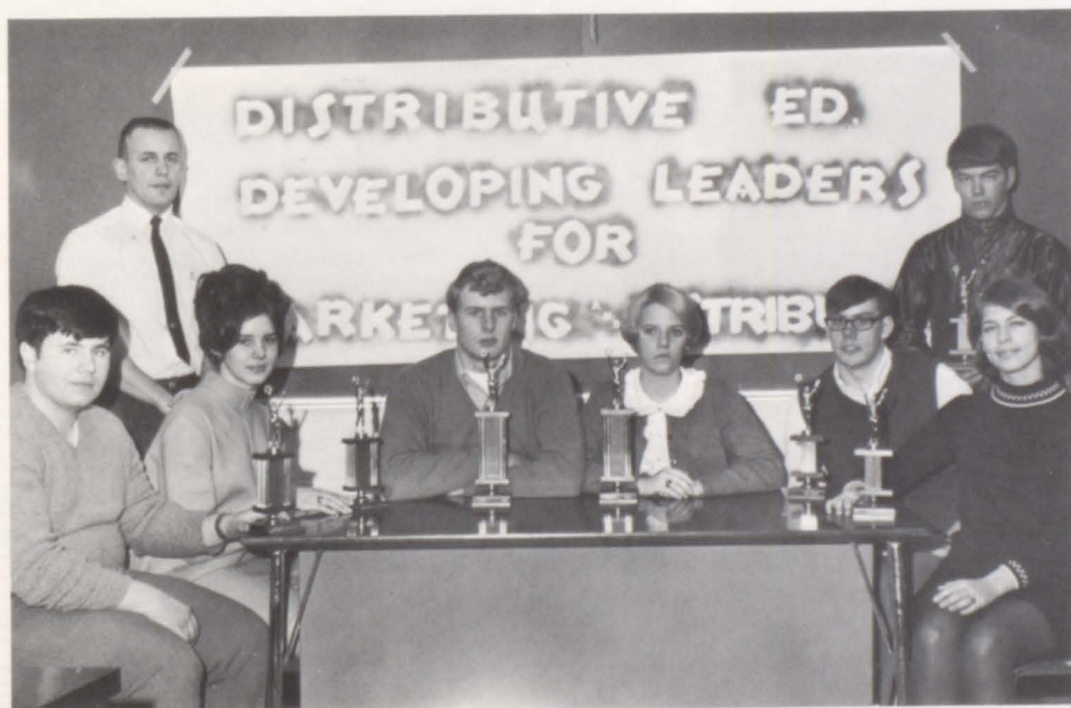

The business courses offered are: Typing, Mrs. Hoy, Mrs. Huber, and Mrs. Carpenter; Bookkeeping, Mr. Ummel; Business Law, Mr. Minton; Consumer Economics, Mr. Bradley; General Business, Mr. Minton; Business Math, Mr. Bradley; Office Machines, Mrs. Hoy and Mrs. Huber; Sales & Merchandising, Mr. Bradley; Secretarial Laboratory, Mrs. Hoy; and Shorthand, Mrs. Huber.

Vicki Mehl is operating a new adding machine, which is part of the secretarial equipment used for labs.

Alan Butt and Kent Wilson are using the new sign-making equipment, which is one of the many phases of Distributive Ed.

These are the students who placed in the DECA contest at Jimtown: Daryl Thomas, Sales Demonstration; Marcia Linn, Public Speaking; Phil Baumgardt, Window Display; Jann Shoemaker, Job Interview; Bill Burgett, Ad Layout; Gary Donham, Ad Layout; and Marcia Peffley, Window Display.

Home Ec Helps Girls Plan Their Futures

Janice Baumgartner

Betty Arthur

The Home Economics program is basically education and experience for personal and family living.

The areas taught are: Human Growth and Development; Child Care and Guidance; Clothing Selection and Construction; Textile Study; Food Selection, Preparation, and Service; Nutrition; Home Management; Consumer Education; Home Care of the Sick and Injured (First Aid); Personal and Social Relationships; Marriage and Family Living; and Personal Development.

Miss Compton, student teacher, shows Ginger Ganshorn a better way of pinning on a pattern to match the plaids correctly.

Taceile Estep, Cheryl Byrd, and Barb Klinke try out some of the new equipment in the Home-Ec. Foods Department. So that's what makes the hallways smell so good!

Sewing is a very absorbing job, which takes a lot of concentration. Right, Tina?

In Home Nursing, the girls learn to make gifts for hospital patients. Sandy Loetz and Peg Bracken are cheering up Taceile Estep, patient, with a few of these gifts.

Physical Education Helps Build Strong Bodies

The different phases of Physical Education are: Archery, Badminton, Bowling, Golf, Dance, Gymnastics, Table Tennis, Tennis, Track & Field, Swimming, Basketball, Field Hockey, Soccer, Speedball, Softball, and Volleyball.

The purpose of education is to prepare the whole individual with the tools of knowledge, skills, and attitudes to become a useful, constructive member of our society, and Physical Education alone offers bodily activities in which the child can know the thrills, failures, risks, and triumphs which make him whole.

"Where'd it go?" seems to be the common question in this ball game.

Miss Hershey, student teacher, supervises a game of girls basketball which, many will agree, can be rougher than the boys game.

Connie Wogomon

Industrial Education Gives Students Careers

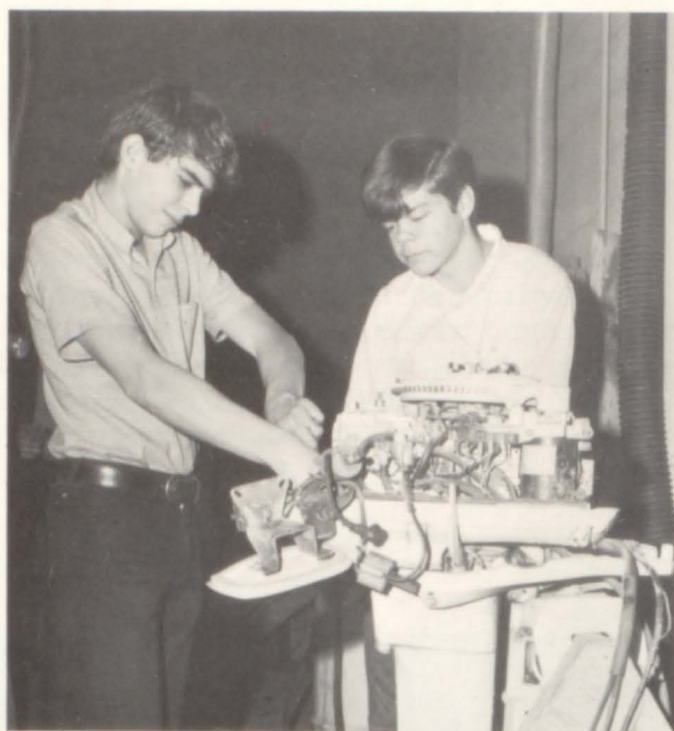

James Alford

Eugene Pitts

Tom Robinson

Albert Smith

Tom Patterson is drawing a plan in Drafting. He looks very absorbed in his work, doesn't he?

Dave Beisemeyer and Paul Coy are working on a boat motor in their class in Marine Training.

Larry Mast is intently working on some valves, grinding them down to size with a valve-grinding machine.

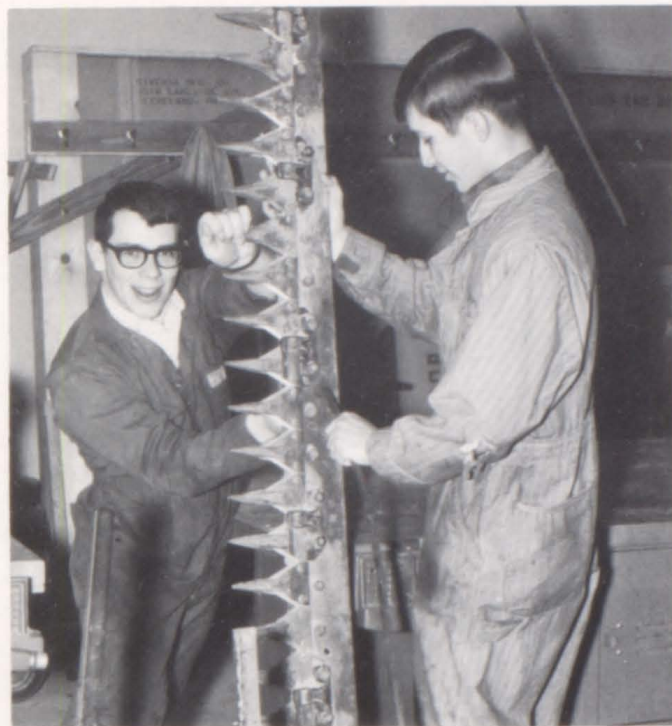

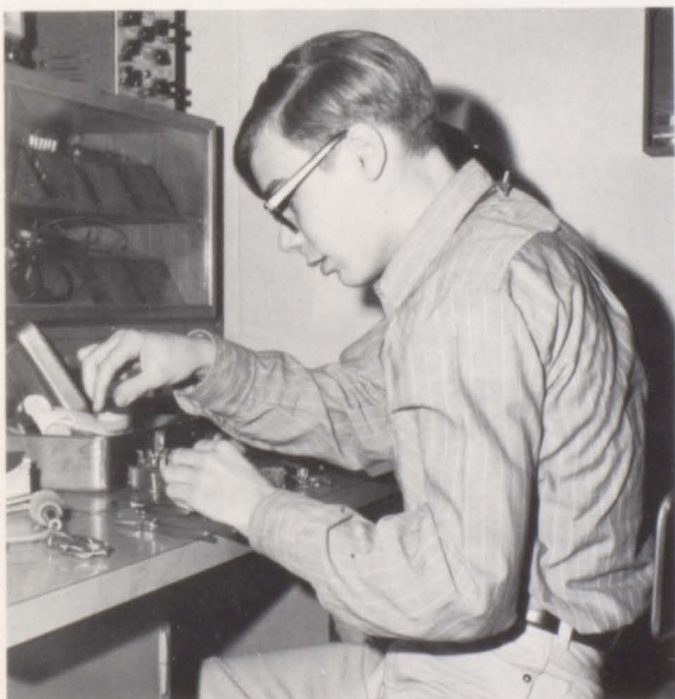

The goals of the Industrial Education Department are to train students for an occupation and to help foster an appreciation and understanding of industry, materials, and machinery.

The subjects offered are: Agriculture, Mr. Washler; Farm Shop, Mr. Washler; Marine Training, Mr. Washler; Auto Mechanics, Mr. Alford and Mr. Robinson; Industrial Education, Mr. Alford, Mr. Pitts, and Mr. Smith; Machines, Mr. Alford; Drafting, Mr. Pitts; Electricity, Mr. Pitts; and Welding, Mr. Pitts.

Ed Campbell and Pat Mignery are planning a piece of lumber in Woodworking Class.

Jeff Brock is concentrating on building an amplifier in Electricity. It's not a very easy job!

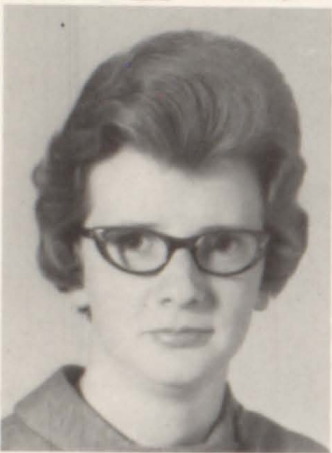

Dan Beer and Steve Bender are working on a mower in Farm Mechanics. They are learning the basics for work that will be needed on their own farm equipment.

These boys are trying to figure out what the problem is with this car in Auto Mechanics Class.

Don Decker

Max Ellen Smith

Jeff's speech looks as though it might be very interesting. This one happens to be a personal experience speech.

but Foreign Languages Are Important, Too.

Gene and Wes are taking advantage of the new headsets in their Spanish class. They listen to lectures and recite homework with them.

Lynn is very busy looking up a new word she has just heard in her class. It is rather hard to keep track of all the new words learned!

Karen Beveridge

Lee Gehrig

Roberta Powers

Norma Rush

In the English language arts one is always dealing with communication in the four areas of reading, writing, speaking and listening.

The modern foreign languages are designed not only to teach students to speak the language studied more fluently but also to teach them the customs and historical, social and cultural background of the country.

The courses taught are: English, Miss Angle; Mr. Gehrig, Mr. Iden, Mr. Fawley, Mrs. Smith, Mr. Decker, and Mrs. Powers; Speech, Mr. Dombek; Drama, Mr. Dombek; German, Mr. Gehrig; Creative Writing, Mr. Fawley; Modern Literature, Mr. Fawley; Journalism, Mrs. Smith; Spanish, Mrs. Beveridge and Mrs. Powers; French, Mrs. Beveridge; Latin, Mrs. Rush; and Developmental Reading, Mrs. Rush.

Each class is working on special projects to provide interest, which will be left in the classrooms.

Karen Drudge made this painting on velvet as an addition to the Government Room, which will stay in the room for future classes to enjoy.

Jann, Dan, and Dennis are pointing out a fact on the map of the United States in the 1800's, made for use in the U.S. History Classes.

These students are being given some study time. The posters in the back of the room were made by industrious students.

The Cooks at WHS have the very important job of planning and preparing nourishing meals for the students.

The Custodians are always busy behind the scenes keeping the school looking nice for students and faculty.

The Bus Drivers are very important. They transport the students to and from the three schools to Wawasee.

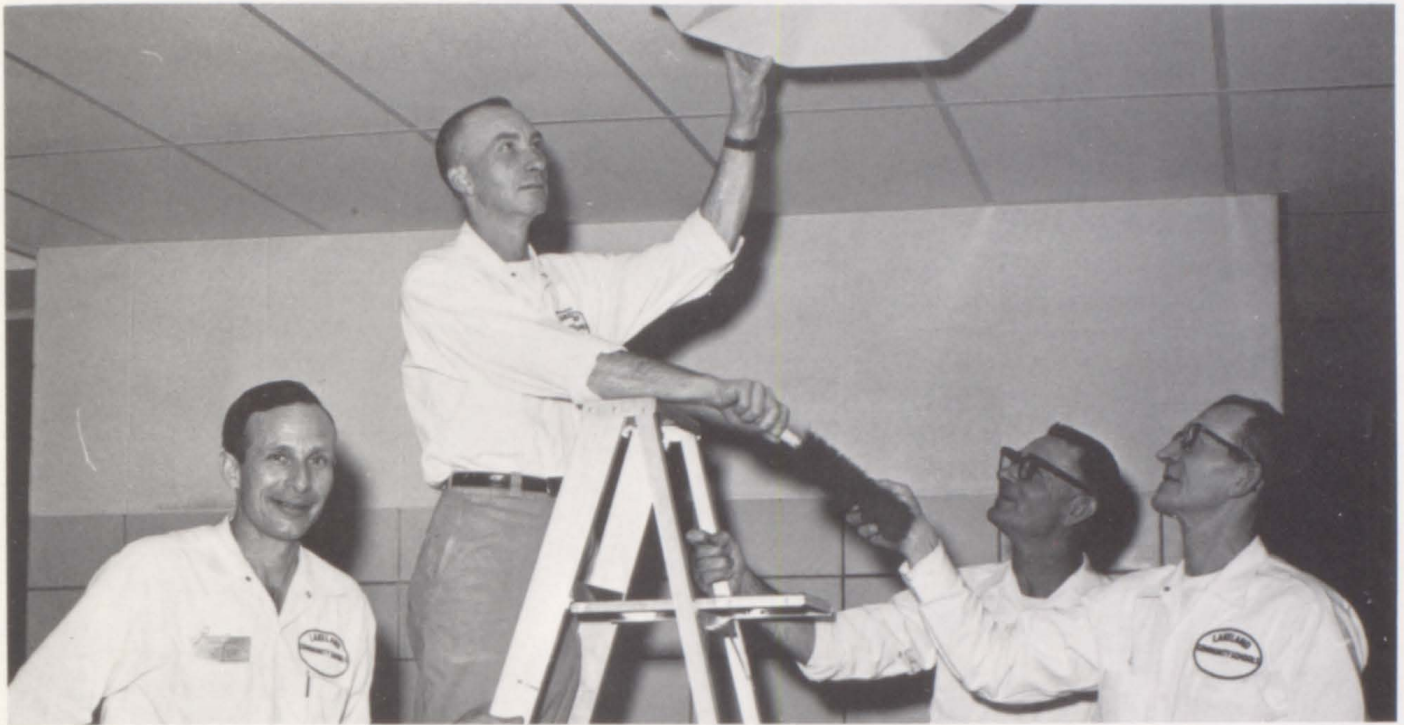

These girls are spending their study time in the Commons, talking along with studying.

We Are Great, We Are Fine

The Class of Sixty-Nine will go down in the annals of history as the "Victim of Circumstances". What ordinarily is a year of rush, activity, confusion, and wonder for Wawasee's first Seniors. Wawasee's newness rubbed off and the Seniors got into the groove--studying, making new friends, participating in sports, music, and clubs, and experiencing the problems of the responsible Senior.

Wawasee's first graduating class chose the motto "The past forever gone, the future still our own." The Seniors remember their past, but their loyalties became attached to Wawasee. Everyone will remember the Sixty-Niners battling through the first difficult year at WHS, standing united, and facing the future together.

Wawasee's first Senior Class officers: Kevin Robie, President; Sandra Yeager, Secretary; Rosie Wolfe, Treasurer; Steve Bender, Vice-President.

Bertha has stated that office machines class is her favorite. She has expressed the desire to return to the United States to study IBM.

Juniors Tackle Concessions and

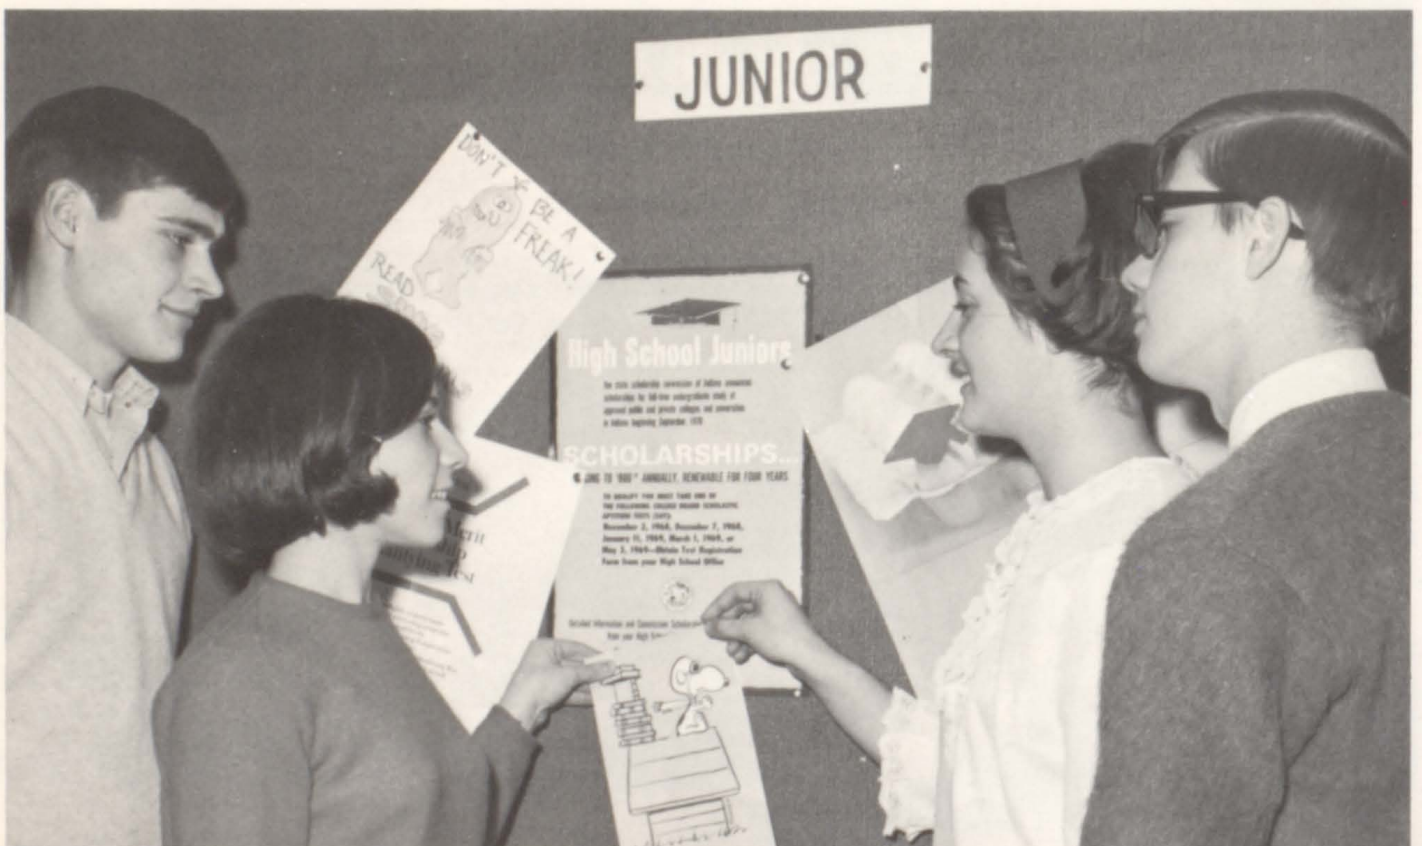

Juniors scramble in the hall attempting to collect their books for the next class.

Fred Hoerr, Jim Hasse, Pat Beer, and Becky Brown represented the Junior Class as President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer respectively. Working with the Junior Executive Council, class members, and sponsors, they tackled a busy schedule of Junior activities.

The first class effort consisted of selling concessions at the first four home football games and the first three home basketball games. Although the weather conditions seemed unfavorable, team effort made the project a success.

The major money-making project of the Class of 1970 was the Magazine Sales. After many hours of time spent on sales, the Juniors planned a class party in the form of a dance, with music by "The Bare Facts". Most of the members attended for an evening of enjoyment with classmates and sponsors.

Juniors not only participated in class sponsored activities, but also joined the entire school in creating Warrior Spirit. Colorful signs displayed during Spirit Week were one of their many contributions.

We Are Great Second to None

After an active day, sophomores enjoy the pool.

The Sophomore class started the 1968-1969 year by electing Dave Cory president and Tom Speicher as Student Council Representative at large. In each home room one representative was chosen for Student Council and two representatives for the Sophomore Executive Council. The first meeting of the Executive Council was held in the Commons to select officers. The following were elected: Mark Thomas--Vice President; Jay Longenecker--Treasurer; and Susi Justus--Secretary.

The first Sophomore activity was the making of a Homecoming float. A second activity, a party, was held March 3 from 7:00 to 10:00 in the auditorium. It was a movie and the turnout was good.

Even though this year has been difficult and lots of hard work, the Sophomores ended the school year with the anticipation of summer and their upcoming year as Juniors of Wawasee.

We Are Honest, We Are True

The Class of '72 was led by: President --George Xanders; Vice President--Mark Workman; Treasurer--Bill Leemon; and Secretary--Gretchen Love.

The two main projects were a Freshmen Dance and the sponsoring of the Penny Pitch Contest. The class as a whole received a trophy for the Best Class Float at Homecoming.

With adjustments, they accomplished these and left a memorable year behind them.

Concert Choirs Sing Out on Many Occasions

The Freshman-Sophomore and the Junior-Senior choirs sang out throughout the year. They performed at many school functions including dedication, school convocations, and graduation. They also sang at several churches in the area.

At Christmastime the choirs presented a program of Old English songs at the school's Christmas Carol Banquet. In March they gave a fine evening concert. Mr. Chance was director of this terrific group.

"Open wide" seems to be the theme of this picture of the Junior-Senior choir.

Pep Band "Sounds Off" at the Ball Games

The Pep Band, consisting of twelve of the High School Band members, played at all of the home basketball games. They did a great job of keeping the school spirit high. They also played both school songs.

Marching Band Struts To Recognition

The Wawasee High School Marching Band consists of the same students who are in the Concert Band minus the athletes and cheerleaders. The band learned many formations and mastered many new songs this year. The band gave performances at football games and at homecoming. One of their favorite formations was the "W" which they frequently used. This particular formation featured Band Major, Dave Elliott and twirlers Cindy Bucher and Ann Arthur.

Wawasee Concert Band

The Wawasee High School Concert Band began its year as a performing group at a concert in mid-winter. The first school convocation in the auditorium was presented by this group of musicians. The group also played at several other functions such as dedication, graduation, and numerous convocations. This band, divided into two classes, traveled to Huntington High School to perform before the student body there. Several projects were a part of the activities of this group. They sold candy and tickets to numerous affairs. This is how the Wawasee Concert Band got its start.

Mr. Judkins pauses in mid-song as a quick photographer surprises him. He directs the Concert, Marching, and Cadet Bands. He is also in charge of the Pep Band.

NHS Gives Recognition to Outstanding Students

The National Honor Society looked back with satisfaction on a successful starting year for Wawasee's chapter. Induction of new members, banquets, and presentation of the school flag were just a few of the activities which made the year complete. The new members look forward to the expansion of the society in the future years.

Newly tapped members take the pledge promising to uphold the NHS goals.

Art Club Stays Busy with Many Projects

The Art Club, under the direction of Mrs. Warner and Mr. Angle, presented a "Jam Concert" in the auditorium. The two groups playing were "Sand" and "Abercrombie's Life". There was also an art exhibit. The Art Club decorated the school for several occasions, such as Christmas, Easter, and Halloween.

Future Teachers Keep the Faculty Jumping

The Phi Tau Alpha Chapter of the Indiana Future Teachers Association launched its first year at Wawasee High School. Mr. Terry Iden and Miss Ruth Angle acted as sponsors over the forty-member group.

The members chose to become Elves, each one choosing a faculty member and secretly doing favors for them. Throughout the year the teachers received surprises ranging from live turkeys and soap carvings to Christmas trees and puppies. The teachers often returned favors to their elves.

The club was represented in the State F.T.A. Convention at John Marshall High School, Indianapolis, by eight members of the Wawasee F.T.A.

Leadership Opportunity in the Business Field

DECA and Business Club did many things together this year. The two clubs got their members from the total business department. At the Region II DECA Contest at Jimtown High School the Wawasee DECA Chapter won more trophies than any other school in our region. The DECA Chapter won two first places, two second places, and three third places. Jann Shoemaker and Phil Baumgardt won first at the regional and Jann went on to the state DECA Contest to finish third in the state in Job Interview. This was a very good showing for a first year Distributive Education program. Mrs. Hoy and Mrs. Huber were the sponsors for the Business Club and Mr. Bradley was the sponsor of DECA.

Future Farmers and Future Homemakers

The Future Homemakers of America are active girls at Wawasee High School. For projects they have sold jewelry and cookbooks. They have also operated the coat check at the basketball games this past year.

The girls meet once a month for a business meeting and once a month for a social and educational meeting. They have enjoyed floral arranging, trips to nursing homes, Daddy-date night and a spring tea.

Mrs. Arthur and Mrs. Baumgartner are co-sponsors of the organization.

The Wawasee F.F.A. Chapter was extremely active this year. The chapter entered the best club float in the Homecoming Parade. The chapter participated in dairy cattle judging, crop judging, hog, sheep and beef judging, production demonstrations, talent contests, dairy proficiency, and home improvement contests. Three Wawasee Future Farmers were named Hoosier Farmers by the state association. Dan Beer was named District Star Farmer, making him the top Future Farmer in District II.

Girls Athletic Association Has Many Activities

The Wawasee Girls' Athletic Association bowling team, consisting of Barb Gardner, Jackie Thomas, Sherry Butler, Vicki Smith, and Nancy Coy, won the Indiana Girls' Athletic Association Bowling title.

The Girls' Athletic Association, or G.A.A. as it is more often called, sponsored by Miss Wogoman and Mrs. Carpenter, held many athletic activities this year. The club did such things as play soccer, volleyball, basketball, shuffleboard, practice tumbling, running track, and have club swims. The girls also formed bowling teams and practiced regularly. In the Girls' Athletic Association a girl may win an award after earning a certain number of points. These may be earned by attending meetings, participating in sports, and being a sport chairman. Points may be accumulated from year to year and an award earned at the end of school.

Gymnastics Club Learns Many New Stunts

The Gymnastics Club in its first year accomplished many things. The girls learned the techniques used on the horse, balance beam, and parallel bars from their student teacher Miss Hershey. The girls did well considering that this was their first year's experience. The girls also performed at an all-school convocation in the gym. They demonstrated several techniques that they had mastered for the student body.

Marta Juday is shown as she performs on the balance beam in an all-school convocation. Also shown are Pam Troyer and Cindy Jones as they "spot" for Marta.

“We’re from Wawasee High School and No One Could Be Prouder"

The Block "W" gave wholehearted support to our athletic teams throughout the year. Their enthusiasm was directed by the varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders. Sponsors of the cheerblock were Miss Wogomon and Mrs. Carpenter. The block was easily distinguished by their becoming gold vests and the many formations in which they sat. Activities, apart from the backing of the team, included the selling of candy to help with the payment of uniforms, and the making of posters and banners to foster school spirit. The block's drive and ability to work together has done much to unite our high school.

Bradley's Braves Show Spirit; Support Team

The Braves add color and enthusiasm to the Wawasee cheering section.

Bradley's Braves, the Wawasee high school boys' cheerblock, has added a lot of spirit and color to the Warrior's basketball games this year. The cheerblock's 50 members wore their gold turtleneck shirts with the green Wawasee high school insignia to each game to instill vigor and sportsmanship in the student body. They not only created new yells for both cheerblocks, but also made banners representative of Wawasee. The Boys' Block attended the sectional tourney with a few extra recruits.

Serving as officers for Bradley's Braves were Joe Thornburg, president, and Tom Turner, secretary-treasurer. Sponsor for the Braves was Don B. Bradley III, instructor of distributive education.

Letterman's Club Earns Honors for W.H.S.

The Letterman's Club met many times during the school year. They earned money for their club by forcing all members who didn't know the school song to pay a quarter. The sponsors of the club are, Mr. Zurcher, Mr. Marlette, Mr. Kurtz, Mr. Ummell, Mr. Stookey, Mr. Bradley, Mr. Minton, Mr. Storey, and Mr. Frank. Members of the club include basketball, baseball, track, golf, and football players. The awards were presented at two programs during the school year. One of the programs was all-school and the other was for club members only.

Mr. Minton and Mr. Ummell are busily presenting awards to the deserving boys.

The boys are anxiously awaiting their awards for sports in which they participated.

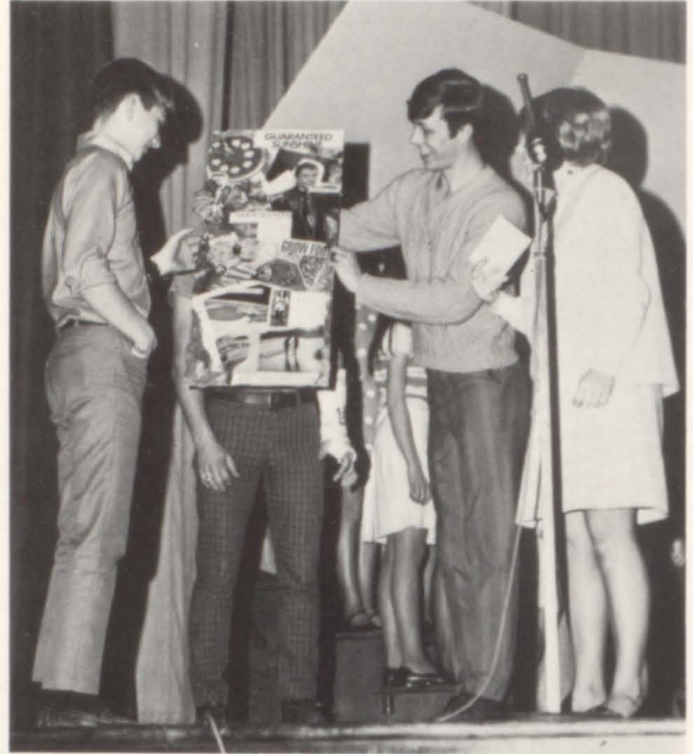

Newspaper Staff Produces "Smoke Signals"

Ric Clingaman and Bridgett Davenport were two of the many staffers who thought deadlines came all too soon.

One of the many ventures of the newspaper staff was the sponsoring of a "sectional lucky guess contest". Ann Rush and Joe Thronburg are presenting the prize to winner Phil Bender.

Annual Staff Meets Their Deadlines

THE LEGEND met its publication, thanks to the diligent efforts of the year-book staff. The staff, under the able direction of Mr. Hall and Miss Angle, had a memorable time meeting their deadlines. The assignments of the staff were: Faye Rheinheimer and Debbie Bockman, co-editors; Sandra Yeager, senior section editor; Debbie Searfoss and Marta Juday, sports editors; Mary Coleman and Sharon Frederick, underclassmen editors; Alesia Watson, organizations editor; Vicki Vanator and Rosemary Gunden, typists; Tom Turner, Carl Hadley, and Randy Coverstone, photographers; and Peggy Wolfe, advertising and sales.

Victory over NLC Champs Initiates Sports

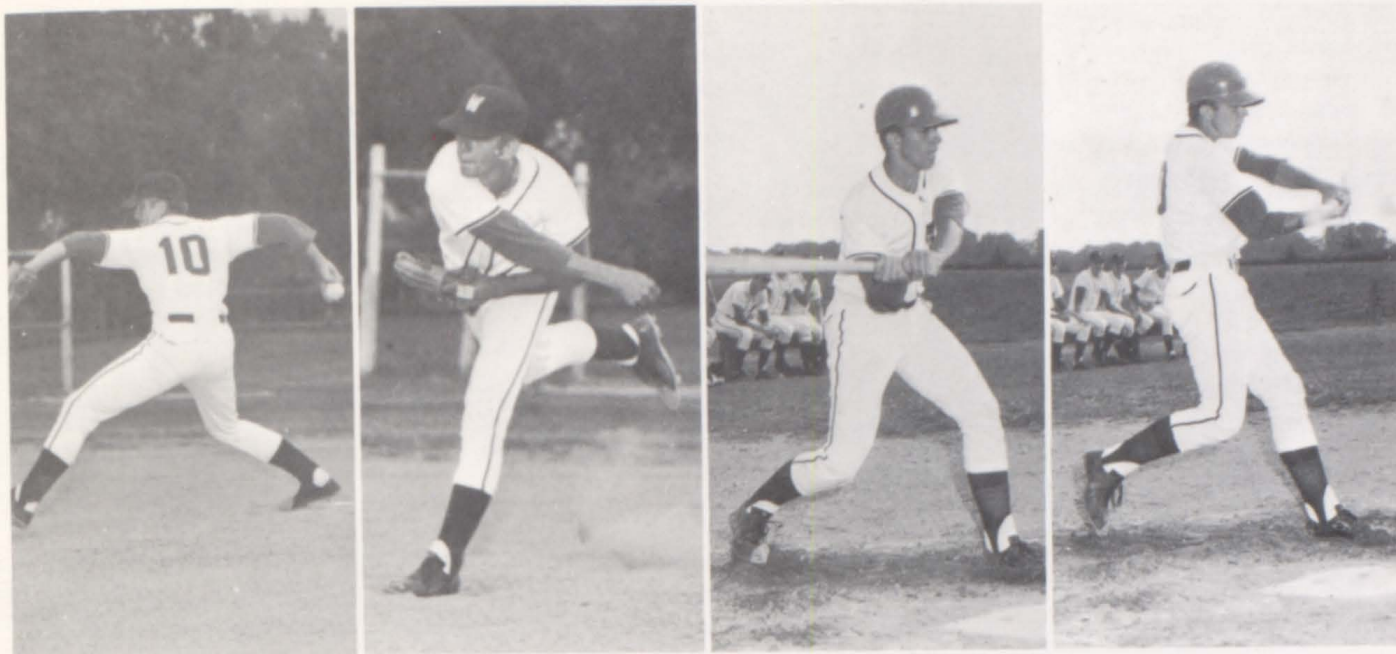

Warrior "batmen" completed their first season with a 6--20 record, the high point being three smashing victories over Concord, the Northern Lakes Conference champions! Steve Runge led the mighty Warriors with seven runs and a batting average of .345 making him the "batting champ" of the season. Brilliant batting performances by Rob Clevenger earned him the honor of "pitching leader" and "Most Valuable Player."
